WILLIAM AND MARY

Thinks Intervention on Part of Town Authorities in Case of Disease May Be Injurious.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WILLIAMSBURG, VA., February 19 .-The executive committee of William and Mary College met at the college yesterday, and transacted a great deal of business. Steps were taken to get the students back again who had gone home because of the late smallpox scare. The dents back again who had gone home because of the late smallpox scare. The committee adopted the following resolution to avoid the results of quarantine by local authority:

"Whereas, the intervention of the local health authorities in the sanitary conditions of the colleges and universities may be productive of very injurious effects, as was shown in the late case of smallpox at the College of William and Mary, be it resolved that the president of the college be directed to represent to the State Board of Health the expediency and propriety of the adoption of a general regulation applying to such conditions in the future."

Bowden, the smallpox patient, is practically well, and there has been no spread of the disease at all. The late experience inflicted a severe shock, but the president and faculty are making herole efforts to get the college together again. So far, these efforts are proving very successful, numbers of students having come in on nearly every train since the quarantine was raised.

It was determined by the executive committee to lay the corner-stone of the new library building during commencement week, and have distinguished guests take part in the exercises. The plans had specifications for the building are nearly ready. It will be a handsome building, of course, will be moved into the new. In the present library there are about 20,00 volumes, and this will make a handsome collection for a start in the new building.

Resolutions were also passed by the executives receiving all banks having new building.

Resolutions were also passed by the committee requiring all banks having money of the college to pay interest on

TWO-CENT RATE.

Bill Passes Carolina House Fixing Maximum Passenger Tariff.
RALEIGH, N. C., February 19.—The House of Representatives of the General Assembly passed on its final reading the Manning two-cont passenger rate bill to-night after a session lasting until near inidinght.

The discussion was lengtly, and the House was closely divided on an abendment to make the rate two and one-half cents for the Southern, Atlante Coast Line and the Seaboard Airline and Norfolk and Southern, and three cents on the smaller roads. This was voted down fifty to fifty-four, and the original committee bill passed eighty-three to twenty-eight roil-call vote. The bill provides that roads earning as much as $1.550 per mile in 1966 cannot charge more than two cents, those earning $1,500 per mile two and one-half cents, and smaller roads three cents. On this basis the Atlante Coast and Southern would go a two-cent basis, and the Scaboard Air Line and Norfolk and Southern on two and one-half cent basis.

The bill has yet to pass the Senate, where it is believed there will be insistence on at least a two and one-half cent maximum rate for the largest roads. ing Maximum Passenger Tariff.
